THERE IS A KNOCK AT THE DOOR, CINDERELLA ANSWERS

CINDERELLA Good morning.

FREDERICK I'm sorry to disturb you, miss, but—

CINDERELLA But you were hunting and got separated from your group and your thirsty, right?

FRED Not exactly. I'm looking for someone who got separated from our group. How did you know about it?

CINDERELLA He's right inside, won't you come in?

FRED Thank you

(FREDERICK AND BARTHOLEMULE ENTER)

RICHARD Gentlemen, you found me!

BART/FRED Your majesty!

BART You're supposed to curtsy to the prince.

CINDERELLA The prince?

RICHARD Yes, I'm sorry I didn't say anything earlier. I didn't want you to make a fuss.

CINDERELLA I'm so sorry, your majesty, I didn't know. I wouldn't have said all those things.

RICHARD It's alright. I enjoyed it. And I enjoyed the dance. I hope that we can do it again.

CINDERELLA Of course, your majesty. Anytime.

FRED Your majesty, we must be getting back now.

RICHARD I will see you again, I promise. Bartholomule, be sure to write down this location so that we can find our way here again.

BART Yes, sire.
